DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's Admitted Prior Art (AAPA) in view of US 2,906,006 (Neal). AAPA teaches providing a first sheet of material having a first bonding face and a first outer face and a second sheet of material having a second bonding face and a second outer face (specification, paragraph 2); bonding said first and second sheets together (specification, paragraph 4); applying a conductive coating onto said first and second outer face (specification, paragraph 2). Neal teaches creating a plurality of patterned areas using an antibonding material on at least one of said first bonding face and said second bonding face injecting fluid between said first and second sheets thereby causing at least one of said first and second sheets to project outward at said plurality of patterned areas (col. 3, ll. 65-70 and col. 4, ll. 5-60) and imposing a force onto at least one of said first and second outer face thereby joining said first and second sheets at said bonding area (col. 4, ll. 1-60), where the thickness after pressure bonding would necessarily be less than the pre-bonding thickness; placing said first and second bonded sheets into a die having spaced apart first and second boundaries; and injecting fluid between said first and second bonded sheets whereby extension portions contact one of said first and second boundaries so as to form a flat surface thereat (col.

6, ll. 1-20); wherein injecting fluid between said first and second sheet includes forming a flow channel between said first and second sheet (col. 6, ll. 1-20); roll bonding said first and second sheet together (col. 5, ll. 70-75). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the heat exchanger of AAPA to utilize the stop off, pressure bonding, and subsequent fluid pressure in order to reduce the overall manufacturing complexity and cost (see Neal col. 1, ll. 15-60).

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
